OUR CRAFT

Every piece begins as a block of wood and the patience of an artisan.

In the workshops of Jaipur, carving is a craft passed from one generation to the next. Our artisan families shape seasoned wood with chisels and hand drills, building up every feather, flower and jaali opening by hand.

No two pieces are ever exactly alike. Small variations in grain, finish and size are the signature of genuine handwork — proof that what you hold was made by a person, not a machine.

We work directly with our carvers, so you get authentic craft at honest, manufacturer-direct prices — whether you're buying a single gift or stocking a store.

100% hand-carved

Shaped by artisan families in Jaipur, Rajasthan.

Seasoned wood

Kadam wood, dried and finished to last for generations.

Direct from the maker

No middlemen — fair prices for you and our artisans.

Ships worldwide

Careful packing for gifts, retail and export orders.

> “A machine makes a thousand identical objects. Our artisans make one — yours.”

WOODEN ELEPHANTS

The Elephant Collection

Good fortune, carved by hand.

In Rajasthan, an elephant with its trunk raised is a blessing at the door — a symbol of strength, wisdom and welcome. Our artisans carve each one by hand, piercing the body with jaali so light passes through the wood like lace.

ORNAMENTAL ELEPHANTS · SEASONED KADAM WOOD

Carved Jhule Elephant

Hand-carved Kadam wood elephant draped in an ornate ceremonial jhule.

A timeless centrepiece carved from a single block of seasoned Kadam wood, this elephant carries the regal jhule (ceremonial blanket) of Rajasthani tradition. Every fold of the drape, each strand of the tasselled trim and the delicate jali (lattice) work is chiselled entirely by hand. The warm honey tones of the natural grain are finished with a soft matte polish that deepens beautifully with age.

JAALI ELEPHANTS · KADAMB WOOD

Jaali Net Elephant

Hand-carved Kadamb wood elephant with a pierced openwork jaali net drape in fine honeycomb bands.

Hand-carved from a single block of Kadamb (Burflower) wood, this standing elephant is defined by its crisp openwork jaali net — rows of clean round holes pierced completely through the wood in tiered honeycomb bands, so light passes right through the drape.

SIGNATURE PIECE

SHIKARGAH ELEPHANTS · KADAMB WOOD

Shikargah Jaali Elephant

Hand-carved Kadamb wood elephant with intricate Shikargah jaali panels of forest wildlife.

A masterpiece of Rajasthani miniature carving, this elephant is worked entirely by hand from a single block of Kadamb (Burflower) wood. Its ceremonial drape is a Shikargah panel — the traditional 'hunting-scene' motif — alive with deer, tigers and foliage carved in delicate open jaali (lattice) work, framed by a royal jhula saddle and finely ornamented headpiece.

Jali Dancing Peacock

An open-fan peacock showcasing masterful pierced jali feather work.

The crowning example of Jaipur's pierced jali craft — the peacock's fanned tail is hand-drilled and carved into hundreds of delicate feather 'eyes', creating a lace-like screen that plays with light. The body is textured feather by feather, and the crest finished with fine detailing. A heritage showpiece for collectors of traditional Indian art.
